Nitze, Bundy Sworn In by McNamara

Associated Press

Two vacancies in upper echelon Pentagon posts were filled yesterday with the swearing in of Paul H. Nitze as Secretary of the Navy and William P. Bundy as Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara administered the oaths simultaneously to the two men.

Nitze, who succeeds former Navy Secretary Fred Korfh, resigned, formerly held the post now taken by Bundy who was his deputy.

McNamara said they have much in common, both having been in Government service for more than 15 years and both being proteges of former Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Acheson attended yesterday's ceremony.
